At one of the largest-attended business meetings since the Grande Prairie branch of the Canadian Legion was organized and which preceded the smoker held in commemoration of the capture of Vimy by the Canadian troops, Charlie Turner was elected president for another year, positively refused to do so, owing to stress of business. Other officers named were: First vice-president, Chester Miller; second vice-president, Norman Leslie; third vice-president, L. Dimdale; Executive, J. Shields, J. M. Smart, Joe Putters, A. Childs, and J. A. Whitlock.

The singing of "O Canada" opened the meeting.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, as was also the financial statement, submitted by J. M. Smart.

The statement showed that there was a nice balance in the bank and indicated that the organization was in a better position than it had been for years.

Mr. Smart further reported on the negotiations being carried on with the federal government to take over the Immigration hall by the Legion. He further informed the meeting that it was a matter of time before the hall would be turned over to the Legion.

Olli Barley Not In Malting Grade For Another Season

Canada Malting Company If Possible Will Purchase Up To 10,000 Bushels Of The 1938 Crop, Paying Price Of 3 Cts. C.W.

BEAVER LODGE, April 7.—Olli Barley, the new early Finnish variety so much appreciated because of its advantage in fighting frost and wild oats, has been malting grade for the first time. It was hoped that it might be suitable for malting for the first time, but according to a telegram from Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cereals, received by the Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station here, date April 7, L.H. Newman has decided to defer his decision for one year pending further tests by the Canada Malting Company, also further laboratory investigation.

If possible, the above company will purchase up to about 10,000 bushels of Olli suitable for malting for the first time, paying the price of 3 Cts. C.W. While many growers will be disappointed that the barley has not yet been malting grade, it is to be considered that one or two varieties have turned out to have certain defects from the malting standpoint so that a policy of caution is perhaps justified.

Meanwhile, a great many farmers who have demonstrated to their own satisfaction the adaptability of this variety will continue to grow it for food purposes.

Excitement on Vancouver Island has been running quite high, said Mr. McMillan, in connection with the Tribune, reporter, over the discovery of gold in the prospecting area on the west coast of the island. "Of course," observed Mr. McMillan, "the field is only in the prospecting stage."

While the winter was ideal for lumbering operations, the prospects for export trade are not bright, due largely to the unsettled conditions in the Orient and Europe.

The McMillans stopped off for two days at Vancouver on the way back after spending the rest of the six weeks at Victoria.

Mr. McMillan stated that the first narrow bridge, which when completed will span the entrance to Burrard Inlet, Vancouver's main harbor, is pretty well along and should be completed next October.

Continuing, Mr. McMillan said that work had started on the completion of the C. N. R. Hotel, the erection of which commenced several years ago but was stopped.

Mr. McMillan explained that the new hotel will be jointly operated by the C. N. R. and C. P. R. and that the Vancouver Hotel will be turned into a business block.

It is estimated that the cost of this new hotel will reach $12,000,000 when finished and furnished.

"Flowers were in bloom at the coast and everything was green when we left," remarked Mr. McMillan.

Reporter: "Did you play any golf at the coast?"

Mr. McMillan: "My golf game was not improved and I am the worse winter practice to keep in sight of the other players who inhabit Richmond Hill."

The weather at the coast was described as good and the visit and trip most enjoyable.

Mayor And Councilor Porteous Clash Over The Powers Of Committees

Chairman Of Works Committee Said He Would Resign Unless He Had The Right To Hire His Own Men And Run His Own Department—Mayor Denied That He Sought To Take Over Powers Of Committees—Delegation From Tennis Club Waited On Council And Asked For Land And Financial Assistance—Fire Department Asks For New Truck And Other Equipment.

Viewers were put into the council meeting Monday night when Councilor Porteous demanded a showdown on the question of powers of the works committee, of which he is chairman. He charged that Mayor Tooley had not lived up to his promise to give the committee and that the town council was taking his word for it. After all councilors had given opinions, Councilor Simpson moved: "That the works committee, in conjunction with the relief committee, hire all men required by that committee, and that this principle applies to all other committees."

The motion was then put and carried, with the result that the cross-currents got back into their original smooth channels and calm was restored. The clash came immediately following the question of rehiring E. M. Heston as town foreman, who was in the opinion of the council a man of high character and ability. After all councilors had given opinions, Councilor Simpson moved: "That the financial statement for March be read and approved."

Mayor Tooley drew attention to the arrears of taxes on improved property and stated that the list had been made up and he thought some action should be taken. The motion was then put and carried, with the result that the cross-currents got back into their original smooth channels and calm was restored.

It was decided that following the test to determine the flow of water in well No. 2 a special meeting of council will be held on May 1st. (Continued on Page Two)

Seven Per Cent Tax On Farm Production To Take Place Of Other Taxes Says W. Sharpe

Eight Weeks' Session A Busy One—Several New Taxes Added—Government, Observed Mr. Sharpe, Bought In From Taxes Where They Work The Least Hardship—Borrowing Out Of The Question—Enough Debt Now—Wild Land Tax Put Back To Court Speculation.

W. Sharpe, M.L.A., arrived in town Tuesday from Edmonton. Interviewed by "The Tribune" reporter, Mr. Sharpe stated that the eight weeks' session was a busy one. He pointed out that the session was a busy one, and that the government had added several new taxes.

"Borrowing," he said, "was out of the question, because we are in debt enough now. Therefore the only other source is taxation. Every effort was made to get the session out of the way as soon as possible, and in the end we succeeded."

Continuing, the M.L.A. observed: "As everyone knows, governments have only two sources of revenue, borrowing and taxation. That is to say, it will take the place of the present taxes on farm lands, the Municipal, Hospital and Social Service taxes."

"The proposed seven per cent will permit of some of the taxes to be carried over, the extent of such insurance will be determined by the vote of the session."

Mr. Sharpe stated that he would be coming to see the session later when the session will arrive. Among the new taxes, observed Mr. Sharpe, adopted at the session are: Two per cent on securities, tax on business profits, tax on corporations, including banks.

The financial statement revealed a season of greater activity and success than any previous year—the association was out of the "red" and even had a small surplus with which to start summer sports.

C. Turner Is ...

The first year, completed, observed, "We want all returned men who possibly can to join the Legion. Remember the strength of the Legion is in its membership."

The president then gave a brief resume of the activities of the branch during the year. He welcomed those who were not members and members of other branches.

"The Canadian Legion is today an organization of real force in the nation," said Mr. Fleming, who thanked the members of the executive for their splendid cooperation and work accomplished.

After reporting in detail on the Legion's activities, the president called upon W. Storn, who said that he thought it was an excellent idea to take over the immigration hall and do something for the boys and girls of the town.

Comrades from other branches were then introduced.

H. J. McDonald complimented the executive on the splendid showing, especially financially, adding that this was possibly a Scotchman's way of looking at things. He said that he would do everything in his power to assist the Legion.

The president thanked all those who had assisted the Legion in any way during the year.

SMOKER

There were about one hundred at the Legion smoker which followed the business meeting.

The commissary department, in the hands of a committee which clicked all through the evening, saw to it that no one was overlooked and as a result there were no drought areas.

Musical numbers, which included many sing-alongs led by Jim Rickard, W. Storn and C. C. Fleming, furnished the principal entertainment.

Bert Churchill and W. L. Dodd, former bandmaster of the Regina Rifles, accompanied on the piano, Charlie Stredulinsky assisted on the accordion.

The outstanding musical numbers of the program were the vocal solo by Mike McGee, who was in splendid voice. Mike simply took the house by storm.

As the new president, Mr. Turner, was busy, the retiring president, C. C. Fleming, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers.

Comrade Cuthbertson of Wembley brought greetings from the Wembley Legion, which organization, he observed, would in all probability join up with the Grande Prairie branch in the near future. He said that he hoped everyone would go home happy.

At any rate, would go home happy.

Mr. H. L. Vaughan of Grande Prairie stated that he came from Vegreville, where they too have a live branch of the Legion and where they were celebrating as Grande Prairie Legion was doing. While he was not delegated to do so, he would like to take it upon himself to extend greetings from the Vegreville branch.

Father Conway on being introduced said that he had been transferred to Williams Lake, B.C., and would leave soon for his new charge. He referred to the many kindnesses shown him by people of all classes during his residence in Grande Prairie the last three years. He observed that as Williams Lake is not far from Hazelton, he would be able to boost for the Monmon Pass Highway at the western terminus.

Father Redmond said that he hoped that Father Conway would be able to hook up with the Yote in his new field.

Mr. Fleming announced that Mr. Churchill, who is bandmaster of the town band, had offered to have his band at the next smoker, and if would cost the Legion a cent. Mr. Fleming on the part of the Legion, thanked Mr. Churchill for his very kind offer.

Comrade Joe Pevet, who served with the French army and fought at the historic battle of Verdun, when called upon said that he was sure he could not speak English better. As it was he thanked the Legion for the opportunity to be present. Joe was given a great hand.

Several new members joined up and many renewed their membership.

The most successful night was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

MRS. A. HAZARD-SMITH WAS WEEK'S INTERESTING VISITOR SAYS VANCOUVER WRITER

The following appeared in The Daily Tatler column of the Vancouver Sun, written by Doris Milligan, on Wednesday, March 31:

Vancouver's most interesting visitor this week is a small, dark-haired "go-getter" named Mrs. A. Hazard-Smith, whom you'll find registered at Hotel Grosvenor.

She represents the most unusual community project Canada has ever known, and she has a little history of her own, for she took twenty years to cross the Dominion.

Mrs. Hazard-Smith is the wife of the publicity director of the Monmon Pass Highway Association and she's here hitch-hiking for friend hubby, who is too busy just now on his registered road farm at Wembley, Alta., to get away.

When the government failed to listen to pleas of the settlers in the Alberta and British Columbia sections of the Peace River country for a direct outlet to the Pacific, the settlers rolled up their sleeves and went to work themselves.

They formed the Monmon Pass Highway Association and on June 11, 1901, they started heading west by way through the 132-mile strip that when completed will connect them with the British Columbia highway system at Hazelton, northeast of Prince George.

They've already built 50 miles of the road and worn out their first batch of axes (which were donated by hardware merchants of the district) and they've put those away as souvenirs.

Women and men alike are doing their part. While their husbands are cooking to send along food and rush through the week's work so they can go and cheer along the road gang on Sundays. They keep busy raising money, telephone bazaar parties, and so on, lecturing (Mrs. O'Brien, wife of Dr. O'Brien, Grande Prairie, has given a series of radio talks over the new radio station, CFPX).

God too young women daughters of pioneers went right along last summer and acted as camp cooks.

Back in 1917, just out of Emerson College, Boston, where she had specialized in dramatic art and English, Mrs. Hazard-Smith (she wasn't "Mrs.") started from her home in Prince Edward Island to a job in Vancouver.

But she made a side-trip to Wembley to visit members of her family and stayed, not married, and caught her first glimpse of Vancouver when she came down for the first time on behalf of the new road. When that is finished, she says, Vancouver will be a nice host to lots of Peace River folk.

"That new hotel just he opening in time," she says.

$1,000,000 FOR ROAD WORK ON ALBERTA'S HIGHWAYS

Vote of $1,000,000 for main highway construction this year, approved by the Alberta legislature last week, is expected to result in some major road improvements.

One project to be undertaken is the Trans-Canada Highway for a distance of 10 miles or more in the Medicine Hat district. Much of this will be reconstruction, which will be undertaken as early as possible.

Between Calgary and the international border the "bottleneck" is expected to be extended, which will be welcomed by tourists.

Seventy miles of "bottleneck" also is planned for the Jasper Highway, west of Edmonton, which, as yet, has not had any first-class hard-surfacing.

In the north country more travelling is proposed, largely for the Peace River Highway, where 40 miles were given an all-weather surfacing last year. Much of this year's work probably will be done at Grande Prairie and in the vicinity of Lesser Slave Lake, according to information given to officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

out of disposal parts of the pre-war 80 h.p. Hispano motor. These four units had eight cylinders in a V. Major Halford used four of the cylinders, the same, and the same, crankshaft, a new crankcase and other things, and got 70 h.p. out of half the motor. Gradually more new parts were introduced, a different crankshaft, a different engine, and finally different cylinders. And from that came the original Cirrus motor. Later on the Jee Haviland Company decided to make their own motor and got Major Halford to design for them, and that became the Gipsy I of 90 h.p. from a later version of that turned up the Gipsy II of 120 h.p. Then two extra cylinders were stuck on and it became the Gipsy III of 200 h.p. Then that was made into an inverted V-type motor and became the Gipsy XII, such as is now used in the Albatross, which gives about 200 h.p. Also Major Halford developed from that a 14-cylinder engine for the competition in the first place of four Gipsy cylinders right side up and four upside down, making a double-opposed eight-cylinder motor. Then he put another one alongside that, and made the two crankshafts, running in opposite directions, turn a common shaft. That was the Gipsy XIV, and from that evolved the Napier and the Dagger and Sabre. These have nothing to do with the Gipsy, but the sequence of events is worth telling here, because it shows how things developed independently of their creators and how their creators have to follow them. The Gipsy XIV, which was a 14-cylinder motor that practically all the other types have been based on. Major Halford has since been dropped. Anyhow, Captain Geoffrey de Havilland and his staff have been responsible for practically all the other types that have been built for the competition here as soon as he gets settled.

A TRANS-CANADA APPOINTMENT

Mr. J. T. Bain, lately chief inspector of British Airways Limited, has resigned to take up an appointment with the Canadian Pacific Airlines at Winnipeg, Manitoba. Mr. Bain sailed for Canada on March 26. So far as we know, he will be the first Briton appointed to the company. Mr. Bain has also had the executive position of chairman of the executive committee of the Aircraft Engineers Association, for which he has worked very hard. He hopes to form a branch of the association here as soon as he gets settled.

STUNTING AT SEVENTY

"Too old to fly at forty?" is the question solemnly discussed in a newspaper article I have just been reading, and I wonder if the learned author—yes, it was a scientist—had ever heard of those two days of British private flying, Douglas Pavey and C. J. Richardson. Both are septuagenarians and to them more surely belongs the distinction of being Britain's oldest active air pilots.

Douglas Pavey, who owns a Buelet Moth and spends most of his time flying among the Swiss Alps, learnt to fly at Heston and took his A license when he was a mere youngster of 18. Three years later, ordinary flying having begun to pall, he came back for a full course of aerobatics and passed with full marks. Mention to him the risks attendant upon superimposition of stunts, and he will probably and gravely—and tell you about the time when, flying upside down in a Tiger Moth, he lost his hotel key, complete with chain and brass knob, and very nearly had to sleep in the corridor that night.

The 75-year-old rival, Mr. A. J. Richardson, has been flying since 1928, when in celebration of his 57th birthday he took his A license at the Norfolk and Norwich Aero Club. A few months later he had secured a C license. He has since then, as plain "master," this enterprising veteran is really Colonel A. J. Richardson, D.S.O., who commanded the 1st East Yorkshire Regiment before the war and had retired when it broke out. Not to be left out, he finished the Army, joined the 7th East Yorks, took flight to France, and was awarded the D.S.O. for conspicuous gallantry in action.

Not surprisingly, "Old Hick" —as the troops referred to him—has hundreds of admirers among his old C.O.s and one of them hearing that his old C.O. had lately taken up flying, is reputed to have remarked that he knew "Old Hick" and that "if he says he's going to fly round the world when he's eighty, then he'll fly well do it. Only 'jolly' well when the word is used."

The SHAPSHOT GUILD

GET AN IDEA FIRST

Bedtime—and an excellent "story-telling" snap. Learn to build your pictures around a central idea.

BEFORE you snap a picture, do you have in your mind a clear idea of what you want the picture to give? This is important, because every picture needs a central "picture idea" to give it life and meaning. Especially, every picture with persons in it needs some sort of action (or activity) to give it interest.

By "action" I don't mean rapid motion, but merely that the person pictured should be doing something. For example, suppose you have a small daughter, and every now and then you want a new picture of her. Well, don't just get her to stand in a corner of the backyard, and look at the camera while you snap. Reuse the picture to her personal life, her daily activities. Look at these ideas: picture of her climbing out of bed in the morning; you can take it at night, really. A snap of her yawning and stretching, in pajamas. Rubbing sleepy eyes. Talking to her doll. Playing house. Forcing over picture books. Leaving for kindergarten. Helping Mother in the kitchen. Riding a tricycle or scooter. Munching a slice of buttered bread. Being tucked into bed at night. Sleeping soundly with a doll or teddy bear or toy dog.

In all these, she is doing something. And, she will help you get your pictures. If you make a game of it, and suggest that she "play like" she is doing this or that. Indeed, this is a good way to entertain her on a dull day or evening.

It's a good picture method. Start with a clear idea, and make the picture to fit it. When one picture isn't enough, snap a series. Make each picture "say something" and note how they gain in life and appeal.

THE SAP IS RUNNING IN MILLIONS OF CANADIAN MAPLE TREES

In eastern Canada the most positive evidence that Spring is near is the fact that the sap is now running in the millions of maple trees, and the maple syrup and maple sugar which will be made from the estimated 24,000,000 trees that will be tapped is expected to yield this year a total revenue of more than $4,000,000. A good deal of the syrup is made by farmers in comparatively small areas, but there are also several cooperative organizations in the province of Quebec which use modern equipment to produce the syrup and sugar. At the top, left, farmers gather the syrup by the modern method of gravity pipe line to the sugar-house, while, top, right, a farmer uses the old method of a pig tub on a skid-sled. Lower left is a general view of the tapping of the trees and shows the gravity line leading to the evaporation-house. At the lower right is a maple tree being tapped with modern equipment, which includes covered buckets. The province of Quebec accounts for 90 per cent of the sugar and 87 per cent of the syrup of the total production in the Dominion.

A STRANGE SENTRY OUTSIDE THE HORSE GUARDS' PARADE

An unusual picture taken outside the Horse Guards' Parade in Whitehall, London, of an officer's kit beside the gate. The absence of an owner and the silent figure of the sentry on duty nearby created a good deal of amusement among passersby.

ELEVEN DEAD, HUNDREDS INJURED IN SOUTH PEKIN TORNADO

The town of South Pekin, Illinois, 1,200 population, was virtually wiped off the map when a tornado struck, killing 11 persons and injuring more than 100 others, and destroying all but two brick stores among approximately 300 buildings. The photograph shows the injured being cared for in a Peoria hospital.

THE RIVERS ARE RUNNING IN SASKATCHEWAN

Last Summer the Moose Jaw River was a dried-up area covered with weeds, with diving platforms and boats perched grotesquely on its banks (top). Today the Moose Jaw River is a raging torrent as the snow melts and drains down to the lower levels. The bottom picture was taken two weeks ago and shows water roaring over a dam at the head of the river. Little wonder the farmers in the Prairies are optimistic about a harvest in 1938, after eight years of drought.

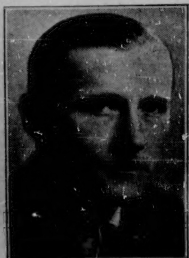

HIGHLIGHTS AT THE REGINA WINTER FAIR

Keen interest was shown in the Winter Fair at Regina this year, as these pictures reflect some of the highlights. The showing of light saddle horses suggested a swing back to this type of horse in western Canada. The young lady on the fine animal is Miss Margaret Macdonald of Brandon, Manitoba. At the right is Mr. Lionel Stillborn, who did well by himself by winning a cup for the grand champion Shorthorn bull and then took the trophy back home with one of his own entries. Mr. Stillborn, who farms at Lemberg, Sask., also won the Longmuir trophy for the best group of three Shorthorn bulls, and is seen above with the two trophies.

East of the Smoky

East of Smoky Post Enjoys Celebration Of Vimy Day

DEBOLT, April 12.—The local post, No. 50, East of the Smoky Branch, British Columbia Service League, arranged for a social evening on Saturday evening when about fifty of the people of the vicinity gathered with the return men and spent the greater part of the evening in playing cards, while others had a game of Monopoly which proved quite interesting.

During the lunch hour the president, Wm. Perkins, who was much pleased with their little gathering and hoped it was just beginning of many such parties. It was intended, he said, to have a few special speakers with us for this evening, but owing to the state of the river it was impossible for them to be with us. In conclusion he said that he was proud of some of the boys who took part in the Vimy battle.

Comrade J. P. Grant, J.P., was the first speaker. He recalled the days when his boys were in the line and his part no matter where we may find ourselves.

The custodian of the local branch, Comrade John Gallagher, said his employer was always willing to take and do every German he would get, and how he could see his fortune made when they began to smile from the other side of Vimy; but owing to the fact his hopes were not crossed, and the ammunition was a little on the large side, his hopes went up in smoke and he was satisfied to get away with his own head.

The next speaker was J. W. Heford, who was present on that occasion. He said it was not likely he would take part in any future war, but he sincerely hoped that there would be some better means of settling world affairs than resorting to war, as he could not bear to think of our sons and young men being called upon to go through what he had been through.

Mrs. John Hiding gave a revised account of "Who Killed Poor Cock Hawk" and assured him that she was again with a man missing on the eve of the battle only to find him proceeding to his home.

Mrs. G. DeBolt, on behalf of the hostesses, thanked the Legion for their kind invitation, saying they had had a very enjoyable evening.

The evening concluded with the National Anthem.

THE OLIVER STANDARD "70"
AS MODERN AS IT LOOKS
FAST ECONOMICAL TOUGH

Here's a tractor that looks modern and is modern from radiator to drawbar. You settle back in a comfortable hammock-type seat, push the starter button—and then—listen to the hum of the 6-cylinder, valve-in-head engine. It's a high-grade, automotive power plant with regular tractor strength and ruggedness.

You can get that motor in two types, the "70" HC with high compression head for regular gasoline, or the "70" KD with different head and manifold for kerosene or No. 1 distillate. You pick your fuel, pick a motor designed from the ground up to that fuel and nothing else, and get maximum economy on every drawbar, belt or power take-off job.

All controls are at your finger tips and overlapping, 6-cylinder power impulses get the job done just a little faster, a little better, and a little cheaper. See us for a demonstration.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

OTTAWA, April 14.—The debate on the question of armaments continues. It began about a week ago, and I understand that many members still intend to take part. Out of the variety of views expressed it becomes quite clear that the general idea is that Canada should not be engaged in foreign wars. All the members apparently seemed to be agreed that it should be necessary that Canada should do something to protect its own shores. The trouble is that there is no way for members of this House to know definitely what the government has in mind. This situation will, no doubt, be clarified next week.

Canadian Painting Subject Interesting Address At W. I.

Miss Betty McNaught of Beaver Lodge District Traces The Development of The Art of Canada Before The War. The speaker, a well-known artist, will be heard at the meeting of the Beaver Lodge District on Thursday evening.

Tracing the development of Canadian art from the time of the first settlers to the present day, the speaker will discuss the work of the artists of the early days, the work of the artists of the present day, and the work of the artists of the future.

It was not only because her landscapes were realistically familiar to many—there were some of the early artists of the present day, and the work of the artists of the future.

Canadian landscape painting really began in the pioneer days of early French Canadian times, in sketches of the Jesuit missionaries to the Indians, the military men, the speaker said. There were three more or less related periods of development. The first was somewhat influenced by European standards of treatment. The middle period, with Cook, Callen, Collier, Gagnon, Healy and Arthur Thomson, marks the beginning of a truly Canadian art. The new group, sometimes called the group of seven, led by MacDonald, broke definitely away from the European influence in favor of a distinctively Canadian treatment of color and line—more rugged and bold instead of hazy. Their work is fast gaining recognition.

It is hoped that Miss McNaught will be able to repeat her illustrated lecture to the local school pupils soon. It was decided to send flowers to the patients in the wards of the Municipal Hospital for Easter.

Five patients used the waiting room during March. Mrs. Thomson won the surprise package.

dent, as time times the report of their contents. Such communications tend to lessen the idea of responsible government. Anytime that anything of a serious nature comes up, which calls for executive action, governments resort to evading official responsibility.

SOCIAL CREDIT

The Social Credit group in the House of Commons brought in a bill of confidence 8-10 in the government two weeks ago. The debate dragged on endlessly, but it was worth while because the result was that the Minister of Finance and other government spokesmen finally admitted and recognized the fact that Canada does not have a cash reserve. It is estimated that the country has 20 times greater than our cash reserves. This means a definite turning point in the field of present-day economics. Consistently throughout the years bankers have denied such statements, but after all the world does progress, people read more about these things nowadays than they used to. The result is that the truth has now been officially recognized. Of course the bankers, the crooks, the liars, have defeated the government if it had carried. Nevertheless, the debate, in which many of the crooks, the liars, the leaders of the opposition and other financial experts took part, served a useful purpose.
